

ORGANISATION PROFILE

Shree Panchamdas Organic
Khadi Gramudhyog Seva Samiti

ORGANISATION OVERVIEW

Kosh is a sustainable organic cotton textile manufacturing brand which believes in responsible production, and respect for the environment while creating high quality fabrics and textiles that create sustainable income and economic growth for marginalised low-income artisan communities throughout rural India. Kosh was established in 2020 by a non-profit organisation SHREE PANCHAMDAS ORGANIC KHADI GRAMUHDYOG SEVA SAMITI, which works in the field of women empowerment

It is our commitment to provide sustainable, elegant and mindful solutions for the fashion industry, for our customers and provide continued work for the communities in which we work. Our focus is to bring alternative options that don't harm the environment, create a positive impact, and create a legacy that lives on for generations to come.

ABOUT OUR FOUNDER

ER. RICHA SAXENA

In 2014 our founder completed her B. tech in production, and began her first career. She resigned from her post in 2016, upon admittance into her masters program to study renewable energy. During her studies, she came up with an idea for a start-up, and began working in the same sector in which she was studying. She completed her masters with a GOLD MEDAL and a ONGC SCHOLARSHIP. In March of 2020, while pursuing her doctorate in sustainable development, she began the start-up focusing on textile manufacturing. Her mission became the innovative fabric, KHADI, rightly naming it “organic khadi,” one of a kind, since she worked on the concept of biodegradability and circularity. Her mission also focused on creating an organisation that operates on the pillars of sustainable development and zero waste.

Ethos

Reinvigorate India's tradition of khadi with a modern touch, ensuring comfort and style for every wardrobe.

PRODUCT TIMELINE

Fiber Processing Step 1: Roving 1 to 15 Days

The cotton is processed into sliver and bales at the roving center at Dariyamau in Barabanki, by 3400 artisans. These artisans use traditional, old kisan charkhas for this process.

Step 3: Dyeing 25 to 30 Days

The hanks of yarn are dyed in natural colors with normal tap water giving the process the name "cold dye". Although this is a male dominated sector, we have 150 women artisans running this segment.

Step 5: Finishing 54 to 60 Days

The fabrics and textiles are stone washed with stones originating from Rann of Kutch in Gujarat. These stones make the products smooth and shiny.

Fiber Procurement

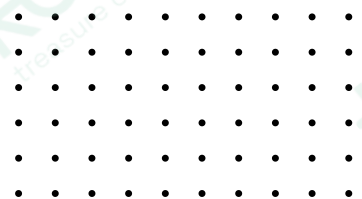

Certified organic cotton which is regenerative in nature is procured from Gujarat & Rajasthan Border. They work with marginalised farmers who have land less than 0.759 hectares.

Step 2: Yarn Spinning 15 to 24 Days

Bales are made into yarn at the spinning center by manually operated ambar charkhas which have 8 spindles, and can produce 250 gram hank of yarn in the complete cycle of charkha over 4 hours.

Step 4: Weaving 34 to 54 Days

The dyed hank yarns are woven into fabrics and textiles by 400 skilled artisans distributed in three villages of Masauli in Barabanki using the traditional machinery called pit looms which are installed in their respective homes.
